Welcome to our new Spring and Summer catalogue. Alongside the many new Policy Press titles publishing this season I am delighted to showcase our first Bristol University Press books and journals.

This catalogue provides a point of transition – May 2018 will see the launch of the Bristol University Press brand and Policy Press will become the flagship imprint within it.

As we expand into new disciplines we remain committed to putting our authors and readers at the heart of everything we do.

We will continue to disseminate impactful work that addresses global societal challenges, extends scholarly boundaries and acts as a powerful platform for academic research, teaching and debate.

Social justice, inequality and human rights

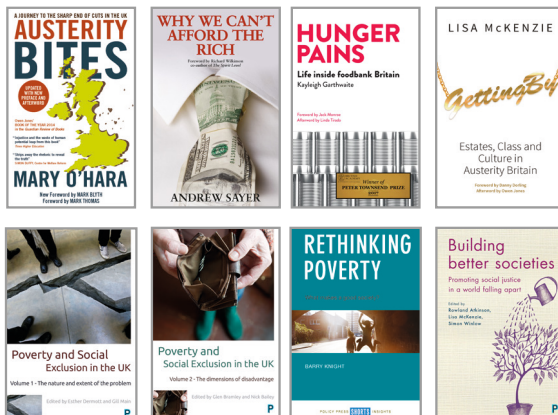

As part of our mission to make a difference, we have a strong commitment to social justice and to publishing work on poverty and inequality. Issues of equality and diversity run through most of our publications, but we also publish books which focus on core topics, including gender, disability, race and ethnicity, faith and religion, migration, and equality and diversity policies. This specialism and our best-selling titles such as Injustice by Danny Dorling allow us to reach a wide cross-disciplinary audience interested in these important issues for society. Peak inequality

Britain's ticking time bomb

Danny Dorling, University of Oxford

"If you have an ounce of compassion -- or self-interest -- in your heart, Peak Inequality is a must-read wake-up call." Val McDermid, author

"An all you need to know guide to inequality in the UK today" Faiza Shaheen, Director of Class

"Danny Dorling gives us words that are weapons." Ken Loach, Director, on *Injustice

"Graphically illuminates why and how place grounds social polarization in politics, housing, education, health, and social welfare -- and offers steps towards a fairer world." Nancy Krieger, Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health

Inequality is the key political issue of our time. Here Danny Dorling brings together brand new material alongside a carefully curated selection of his most recent writing on inequality from publications including the Daily Telegraph, the Guardian, New Statesman, Financial Times and the China People's Daily.

Covering politics, housing, education and health, he explores whether we have now reached 'peak inequality'. He concludes, crucially, by predicting what the future holds for Britain, while we simultaneously try to negotiate Brexit and react to the wider international situation of a world of people demanding to become more equal.

White privilege

The myth of a post-racial society

Kalwant Bhopal, University of Birmingham

With a Foreword by Yasmin Alibahi-Brown

“A valuable insight into the complexities and subtleties of modern day racism, the intersection of race and class and the unfinished battle to transcend white hegemony.” Peter Tatchell, human rights campaigner

“White Privilege brilliantly dismantles the myth of a post-racial society. It is a ‘must-read’ for all those concerned about inequalities of race in society.”

Diane Reay, University of Cambridge

Why and how do those from black and minority ethnic communities continue to be marginalised? Bhopal explores how neoliberal policy-making has increased discrimination faced by those from non-white backgrounds. She also shows how certain types of whiteness are privileged, for example Gypsies and Travellers, despite their identity of whiteness, and how they remain disadvantaged in society.

Drawing on topical debates around education, the labour market, class and poverty, this important book examines the impact of race on wider issues of inequality and difference in society.

The right amount of panic

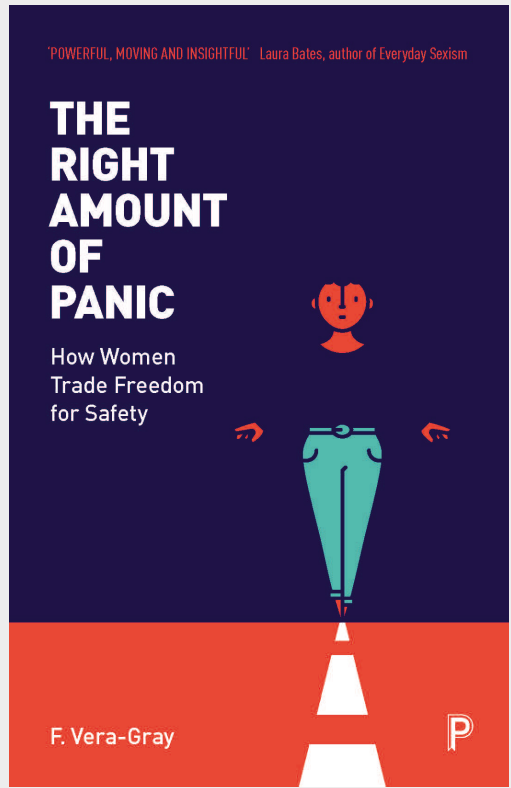

How women trade freedom for safety

F. Vera-Gray, University of Durham

“In a world where women face an epidemic of harassment, violence and abuse, Vera-Gray shatters the illusion that the victim is to blame for her own assault. Powerful, moving and insightful.” Laura Bates, author of *Everyday Sexism

“In this timely book, Vera Gray eloquently debunks the myth that women should shoulder the responsibility for preventing the violence and harassment we face in the public spaces.” Frances O’Grady, TUC

Have you ever thought about how much energy women put into avoiding sexual violence in public spaces? With real-life accounts of women’s experiences, and based on the author’s original research, this book challenges victim-blaming and highlights the need to show women as capable, powerful and skilful in their everyday resistance to harassment and sexual violence.

Abortion wars

The fight for reproductive rights

Judith Orr

“Abortion Wars needs to be in the hands of anyone committed to the fight for women’s liberation.”

Socialist Review

2017 marked the 50th anniversary of Britain’s 1967 Abortion Act. However the struggle for abortion rights is far from over. Combining analysis of media coverage, statistics, popular culture and social attitudes with powerful first-hand accounts of women’s experiences Judith Orr measures the Act’s impact showing that full reproductive rights are yet to be won. The book highlights current debates over decriminalisation and argues for abortion provision fit for the 21st century.

The new working class

How to win hearts, minds and votes

Claire Ainsley,
The Joseph Rowntree Foundation

“A thorough and sympathetic analysis of the new working class that should serve as a bible for policy makers....excellent” Deborah Mattinson, leading political pollster and co-founder of Britain Thinks

“As we continue to feel our political and cultural ground shifting beneath us Claire Ainsley’s reframing of the debate is both illuminating and a stark warning.” Michael Sheen, actor, writer and director

The majority of people in the UK still identify as working class, yet no political party today can confidently articulate their interests. So who is now working class and how do political parties gain their support?

Based on the opinions and voices of lower and middle income voters, this insightful book provides practical recommendations for political parties to reconnect with the electorate and regain trust.

Kill it to save it

An autopsy of capitalism's triumph over democracy

Corey Dolgon,
Stonehill College, USA

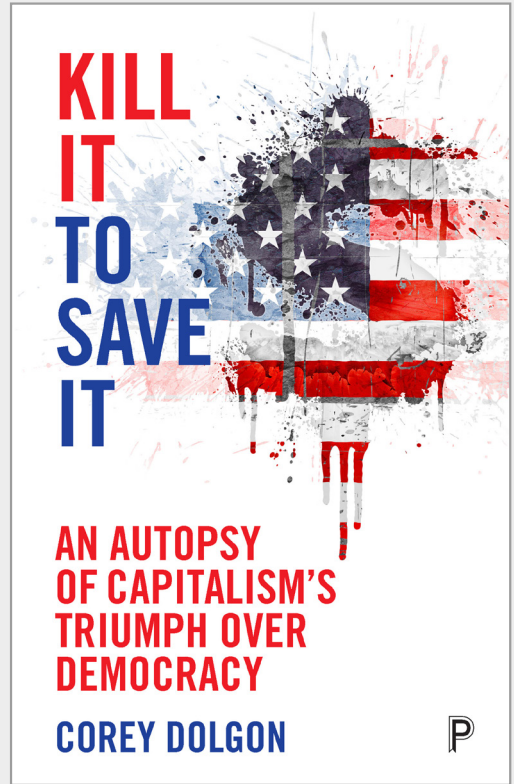

With new Afterword.

“Engagingly written and persuades the reader of the need to save our public institutions by investing in them, not by killing them.” CHOICE

“A clear and accessible look at how policy is crafted, marketed, and ultimately sold or rejected.” Rewire

Kill it to save it lays bare the hypocrisy of US political discourse by documenting the story of capitalism's triumph over democracy.

As the Progressive Left tries to understand how President Trump came to power, Corey Dolgon documents his historical, political and cultural road map. Dolgon argues that American citizens now accept policies that destroy the public sector and promote political stories that feel right “in the gut”, regardless of science or facts.

Capitalism in crisis

Kozo Yamamura, formerly University of Washington

Following Yamamura's death, a new preface written by his wife Susan Hanley on Yamamura's remarkable life is included.

A Times Higher Education New and Notable book

"A bold and heterodox diagnosis of capitalism's illness, and a bracing prescription: It's time for government to invest in basic needs, rather than encouraging us to make and buy growing mounds of junk. We will be talking about this book for years."

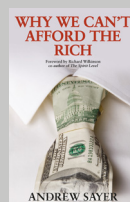

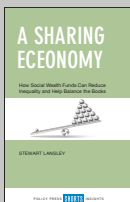

Walter Hatch, Oak Institute for Human Rights, Colby College

"A timely and urgent read given that western economies are at a political and environmental tipping point" Ann Pettifor, Policy Research in Macroeconomics

We now live in a new world in which we enjoy the highest living standard in history, acquiring ever more goods and services as necessary luxuries. Yet current policies only serve to expand public debt and exacerbate socio-economic inequality.

In Too much stuff, Yamamura suggests the only way for capitalism and democracy to thrive is to increase investment to meet societal needs and argues that this will help reduce the growing wealth gap which threatens global democracy.

Women, peace and welfare

A suppressed history of social reform, 1880-1920

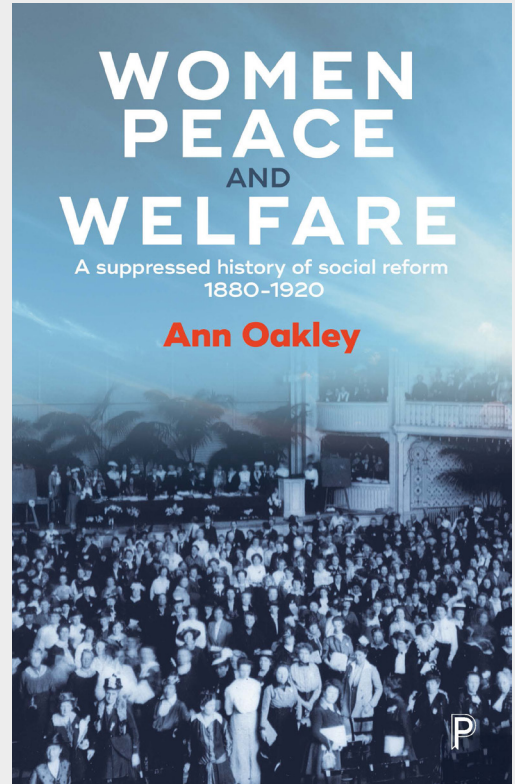

Ann Oakley, University of London Institute of Education

“Few books can boast of the right author meeting the right subject. Here is a glorious exception, which is part of Oakley’s life work of refocusing the lens so that the role of women in establishing the welfare state is fully and justifiably recorded.”

Frank Field, MP

“This book brilliantly uncovers the extraordinary contributions to social reform and to campaigning for peace by women mostly forgotten by history. Many of these challenges to convention are still relevant today” Baroness Tessa Blackstone

Between 1880 and 1920 many women researched the conditions of social and economic life in Western countries, driven by a vision of a society based on welfare and altruism. Ann Oakley uncovers this previously hidden cast of forgotten characters using the women’s stories to bring together the histories of social reform, social science, welfare and pacifism. Her fascinating account reminds us of their powerful vision of a more humane way of living – a vision that remains relevant today.

Social policy first hand

An international introduction to participatory social welfare

EDITED BY PETER BERESFORD AND SARAH CARR

Social policy first hand

An international introduction to participatory social welfare

Edited by Peter Beresford, University of Essex and Brunel University and Sarah Carr, Middlesex University

Foreword by Baroness Ruth Lister

“For the first time, this text explores the problems, practicalities and enormous possibilities of participatory social policy at a global level. Essential Reading!” Jon Glasby, University of Birmingham

Social Policy First Hand is the first comprehensive international social policy text from a participatory perspective and presents a new service user-led social policy that addresses the current challenges in welfare provision.

A companion volume to Peter Beresford's bestselling All our welfare, it introduces the voices of different groups of service users, starting from their lived experience. Includes contributions from Danny Dorling, Peter Taylor-Gooby and Iain Ferguson.

How to build houses and save the countryside

Shaun Spiers, Green Alliance

“This book is at once reasonable and visionary – a remarkable combination, and a remarkably important contribution to one of the most important social policy debates of our time.”

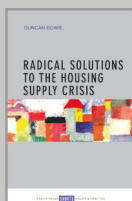

Sir Andrew Motion, poet laureate

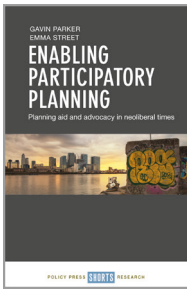

“Thank god for this book and its clear thinking on the subject.” Sir Simon Jenkins, journalist and author

England has a housing crisis. We need to build many more new homes to house our growing population, but house building is controversial, particularly when it involves the loss of countryside.

Shaun Spiers argues that to drive house building on the scale needed, government must strike a contract with civil society: in return for public support and acceptance of the loss of some countryside, it must guarantee high quality, affordable developments, in the right locations.

Robert Mark Silverman, Kelly L. Patterson, Li Yin, Molly Ranahan and Laiyun Wu, University of Buffalo

“Offers important lessons for institutionalizing more equitable planning processes and siting affordable housing to locate poorer residents in neighborhoods of opportunity.” Dennis Keating, Cleveland State University

This book looks at the reasons for the failure (and success) of affordable housing experiences in ‘shrinking’ cities, stressing the importance of siting affordable housing in areas that ensure more equitable urban revitalisation.

Our Shorts are between 20–50,000 words and are available as e-books and in print with a shorter production schedule.

We publish two types of Shorts under both BUP and Policy Press:

- Research – books providing the latest cutting-edge or topical research findings (longer than an article but shorter than a monograph) publishing in hardback with a lower priced eBook which allows for individual purchase;
- Insights – books covering issues of wide interest and where a timely intervention is likely to attract substantial media coverage and reach a broad non-specialist audience, these accessibly-written Shorts enable authors to join the debate authoritatively and quickly and are published as low-price paperbacks and eBooks.

Policy Press also publish the following Shorts:

- Policy Press Shorts Policy & Practice – as part of our commitment to impact and engaging with a wider audience, we also publish ‘policy and practice’ Shorts where there is support with dissemination through Open Access, organisational links, course buy-in or other direct routes to the policy and practice audience.

Written by experts in their fields, these formats provide high quality, peer reviewed content quickly and are available for both personal purchase and for libraries and institutions through the usual channels.

If you are interested in publishing your next project as a Policy Press Short, please see our website policypress.co.uk/policy-press-short for more details or contact Victoria Pittman at v.pittman@bristol.ac.uk.

Sociology and social theory

Our exciting and growing Sociology list features high-quality research, from textbooks to specialised monographs as well as trade books which reach a wider audience. Titles range across areas such as Digital Sociology, Migration, Gender, Race and Ethnicity and Children and Families and we have particular specialisms in Public Sociology, Social Action and ethnographic work. With the launch of BUP the list will extend into new areas including Sociology of Culture, Organisations and Work, Economics, Law and Science and Technology and we welcome proposals from these areas and across Sociology broadly. Law and society in a populist age

Balancing individual rights and the common good

Amitai Etzioni,
The George Washington University

“Etzioni’s call for respectful dialogue and his sensible compromise positions on hot button topics should trigger long-overdue policy changes.”
Christopher Slobogin, Vanderbilt University

“This wonderful book could not have been written by anyone else.” Yuval Feldman, Bar-Ilan University, Israel

Political institutions in many democratic societies are being challenged by fast-growing populist movements, parties, and leaders. Greater attention is needed to the role society plays in forming and challenging laws.

Arguing for a new liberal communitarian approach which recognises that individuals have differing values, interests, and needs, Etzioni considers topics including national security versus privacy, private sector responsibility, press freedom, campaign finance reform, regulatory law and terrorists’ status.

The moral marketplace

How mission-driven millennials and social entrepreneurs are changing our world

Asheem Singh, campaigner, speaker, broadcaster and author

“A remarkable book in dangerous times. Asheem Singh shows with brio, verve and wit, how civic and social activism is retaking its rightful place at the heart of all that is good about our world.”

Phillip Blond, Director, ResPublica and author of ‘Red Tory’

“The Moral Marketplace is the most important work on social activism and the third sector to emerge this decade.” Sir Stephen Bubb, CEO of Charity Futures

This book explores how a movement of tiny ventures evolved into a global humanitarian and financial juggernaut, revealing new ways to fight privilege and inequality, rewire philanthropy, government and even capitalism itself. Through our giving, campaigning and even through our choices as consumers, we can all play a crucial role in taking on the biggest social challenges of our time.

21st Century Standpoints

Miseducation Inequality, education and the working classes
Diane Reay, University of Cambridge and LSE

“This searing critique of how schools and universities fail the working class and reproduce inequalities should be at the heart of contemporary debates on education.”

Andrew Sayer, University of Lancaster

Diane Reay, herself working class turned Cambridge professor, addresses the urgent question of why the working classes are still faring so much worse than the upper and middle classes in education.

Global Migration and Social Change Series

Series Editors: Nando Sigona, Institute of Research into Superdiversity, University of Birmingham, UK and Alan Gamlen, Hugo Centre for Migration and Population Research, University of Adelaide, Australia

The politics of compassion

Immigration and asylum policy

Ala Sirriyeh
University of Liverpool

“This lucid, useful book throws new light on how we think about migration.” Hannah Jones, University of Warwick

Through case studies from Australia, Europe and the US, this book explores how emotion is central to understanding the formation of immigration policy. The author looks beyond the ‘negative’ emotions of fear and hostility to examine the politics of compassion in immigration and asylum policy discourse.

Poverty, inequality and social work

The impact of neo-liberalism and austerity politics on welfare provision

Ian Cummins, Salford University

“Develops ideas for social work that challenge the dominant policy direction and promote the social justice ideals of the profession.” Anna Gupta, Royal Holloway University of London

A critical analysis of the domino effect of neoliberalism and austerity on social work, applying theory including those of Bourdieu and Wacquant to practice to argue that social work should return to a focus on relational and community approaches.

Social work and social theory (second edition)

Making connections

Paul Michael Garrett, National University of Ireland

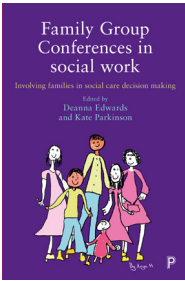

“A necessary and important book that explains with passion, wit and insight the links between social theory and social work practice; it will be invaluable to students and practitioners alike.” Gary Walker, Leeds Beckett University

This book imaginatively explores ways in which practitioners and social work educators might develop more critical and radical ways of theorising and working. Contains features such as reflection boxes and talk boxes to encourage classroom and workplace discussions.

The soul of a university

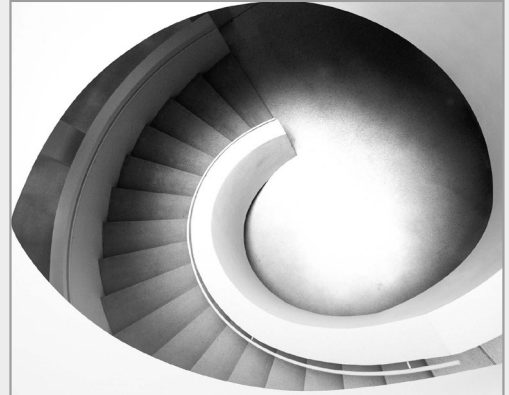

Why excellence is not enough

Chris Brink, Newcastle University

“This is a modern morality tale which deserves the widest readership.” Professor Sir Howard Newby, former Vice-Chancellor of Liverpool and former Chief Executive of HEFCE

“Chris Brink has a very special record of service to higher education and its social relevance. His scholarship and vision speak for themselves. His devastating demolition of the current preoccupation with league tables is brave and timely.” Frank Judd, former Labour Minister of State for Foreign Affairs

How can we re-establish universities’ societal purpose? The solution lies with asking not only ‘what are we good at?’, but also ‘what are we good for?’. Chris Brink shows how universities can – and should – promote positive social change.

Demonising the other

The criminalisation of morality

Philip Whitehead, Teesside University

“This book cleverly invites us to turn the ‘other’ from an enemy into a neighbour: a noble achievement.”
Vincenzo Ruggiero, Middlesex University

Throughout history there has always been an ‘other’, often based on culture, race, gender or class, that has been demonised by the majority. Whitehead challenges the idea that this is an inevitable fact of life.

Journals

We have many years' experience of publishing journals at Policy Press and our commitment to quality, personal attention and collaborative working is well-known. The development of Bristol University Press brings an exciting and unique opportunity to grow a coherent and influential list of journals across the full range of social science subject areas.

To discuss proposal ideas, please contact julia.mortimer@bristol.ac.uk

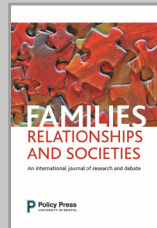

Julia Mortimer,
Journals Director,
Bristol University
Press and Policy
Press

Journals are at the heart of academic publishing and we are proud to support the international social sciences community with a range of prestigious, critical and engaging titles.

Many of our journals are interdisciplinary and aim to encourage debate across academic silos. All are rigorously edited and peer-reviewed by well-known scholars in their respective fields.

We have published the internationally acclaimed Policy & Politics for over two decades and launched eight other successful journals over the past 15 years. Our journals have impact – not just in terms of their citations and Impact Factors but also in their ability to influence and change policy and practice.

In 2018 we are delighted to be publishing the first Bristol University Press journals: Journal of Public Finance and Public Choice and the European Journal of Politics and Gender.

European Journal of Politics and Gender

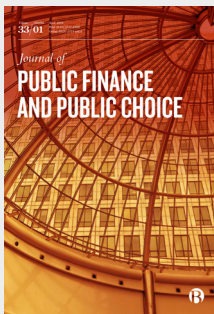

Petra Ahrens, University of Antwerp, Belgium; Karen Celis, Vrije Universiteit Brussel, Belgium; Sarah Childs, Birkbeck University of London, UK; Isabelle Engeli, University of Bath, UK; Elizabeth Evans, Goldsmiths University of London, UK; Liza Mügge, University of Amsterdam, Netherlands

The European Journal of Politics and Gender (EJPG) is a peer-reviewed journal that publishes international, cutting-edge research in the broad field of politics and gender. It is the flagship journal of the European Conference on Politics and Gender (ECPG).

EJPG is firmly embedded in global politics and gender scholarship, its scope is not limited to Europe. EJPG aims to advance gender and politics research in all its diversity. To this end it publishes articles in the wide field of gender and politics, including a variety of geographical and thematic foci, methods and epistemological traditions.

“Gender is everywhere in politics, but gender analysis is not. This much needed international journal is led by an outstanding group of gender scholars with a range of political specialties and perspectives. This new journal will soon be a must read!” Myra Marx Ferree, Alice H. Cook Professor of Sociology, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Journal of Public Finance and Public Choice

Founding Editor: Domenico da Empoli (1941–2016)
Editor in Chief: Emma Galli, Sapienza Università di Roma, Italy
Editor: Giampaolo Garzarelli, Sapienza Università di Roma, Italy; IPEG University of the Witwatersrand, Johannesburg, South Africa
Advisory Editor: Stefano da Empoli
Consulting Editors: James Alm, Tulane University, USA;
Richard E. Wagner, George Mason University, USA; John J. Wallis, University of Maryland, USA; Barry R. Weingast, Stanford University, USA; Ronald Wintrobe, University of Western Ontario, Canada

The Journal of Public Finance and Public Choice (JPFPC) was founded in 1983 by Professor Domenico da Empoli in the spirit of the Italian discipline of Scienza delle finanze. According to this approach, economic analysis should include individual motivations in non-market settings, political institutions, and collective decision-making.

Relaunching in 2018 in partnership with Bristol University Press, JPFPC is unique in the international landscape of public economics journals, because it is committed to explicitly advancing knowledge in both public finance and public choice, reflecting an inclusive approach.

“New technology and dynamic editorial talent, mark both the return of the Journal of Public Finance and Public Choice and a significant milestone in the history of transoceanic cooperation between scholars of Public Finance and Public Choice.”
Professor J.R. Clark, The University of Tennessee at Chattanooga

How to order

Methods of payment

Organisations, institutions and companies can be invoiced and receive books on account. We regret this service is not available for personal orders from individuals. We accept payment by cheque (in sterling) payable to Marston Book Services, or by Credit/Debit card (Mastercard, Visa, American Express and Maestro).

Postage and packing charges

Postage and packing is charged at £2.75 for the first book and 50p per book thereafter (UK) £4.00 per book (Europe) £8.00 per book (ROW). Despatch and delivery Orders will be processed and despatched within 5–7 days. All our overseas orders are despatched by airmail. Please allow 5–7 working days for delivery in the UK, and 14–21 days for all other orders. Unavailable items If the title you have ordered is not in stock or not yet published at the time of your order you will be charged at the time of ordering, we will record a backorder for you and arrange for it to be sent on when it has been received at our warehouse.

Guarantee

If, for any reason, you are not completely satisfied with your purchase, please return the goods with a covering letter within 14 days. We will replace the goods or give a full refund.

Inspection copies

We offer inspection copies of textbooks which are flagged with the symbol throughout the catalogue for lecturers who are teaching courses of at least 12 students (maximum of three). To request your copies visit the 'How to order' pages at policypress.co.uk or contact your local distributor detailed opposite.

Foreign rights

For further information about foreign rights, please contact Jo Greig, Sales & Marketing Director (jo.greig@bristol.ac.uk).

Prices and title information

All prices are correct at the time of going to press but are subject to change without notice. Equally, information on titles not yet published is provisional and may be altered.

Publishing proposals

We welcome proposals for books, series or journals from both experienced and firsttime authors. If you would like to submit a proposal, please visit our website for full guidance and contact details for our editors.
